ERSA Schools Race 2012

A new season, a new race!

If ever there was a race that might not have happened this was it. To pull so many racers together to represent their schools, to run a new format and to make it run smoothly, should be credited to the tenacity of all the volunteers throughout the region.

Hours of organising resulted in a huge turn out for the inaugural ERSA Schools race and hopefully have helped many schools get excited by Slalom racing.

To keep the numbers flowing through there were a couple of times that there was more than one racer on course which Steve Lambert handled admirably, ably assisted by Ian Mawson and Janet Jenkins, his not as attractive sidekicks. But out on their own propelling the brain and brawn of Bernie were those legs! I can honestly say I didn't miss them through the winter, but summer has now truly arrived!

Also a big well done to Bill Parsey, who not only gave the commentary some gravitas but managed to inject excitement after over 450 runs, while eaten a cold burger, what a trouper!

What is Bernie doing?

The fish was this big!

It normally rains at Welwyn you know?

Happy 18th Issy, now you can legally have a hangover

Enjoying the rays
